DESCRIPTION

The need for practical, customized English/French training for executives has never been greater. In today's business world, the executive who is comfortable and effective in speaking English/French enjoys a tremendous advantage both professionally and personally.

ILSC's Executive English/French Program is customized to meet the needs of those executives who require a short yet intensive program. It will give them the tools to improve their business English/French skills in order to communicate effectively in professional and personal settings.

They may choose between private instruction, addressing their specific learning goals or a customized small group.

"I found the classes most informative and useful. My teachers were well-prepared, professional and helpful. Most important for me, and for all my fellow students really, was the way in which we were encouraged and stimulated to speak French and not just listen passively. By the time I left Montréal, I felt that I had definitely benefited from my experience at ILSC."
