

Kiril Tiavin

+46 76 019 3339

kiril.tiavin@educations.com

educations.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Canada Ranked Best Place to Study Abroad

Student Survey Responses and Global Trends Combine to Create the Top Ten Ranking with Canada in First Place

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN (January 28, 2020) - Canada emerged as the best place in the world to study abroad in a ranking recently released by higher education search portal, educations.com.

For the second year in a row, educations.com used student survey responses to highlight key factors in the international student's journey. Over 30,000 students revealed that their priority when selecting a university is its location. Other priorities like cultural experiences, high quality teaching, and language learning provided a framework for ranking the countries based on publicly-available data. Read more about our ranking rationale here.

"Known for its untouched natural beauty, friendly and welcoming locals, and a culture of tolerance and diversity," the report says, "Canada is a clear choice for students looking to study abroad." Canada scored highest for students who want to access higher quality teaching and learn a new language.

In a statement, CIO of educations.com, Fredrik Högemark, said, "Studying abroad is an important life goal for many, and this year's survey revealed that students are prioritizing their personal development, including language-learning and career advancement, even more than last year. Canada is an outstanding example of a country where students can achieve their personal, academic, and professional goals."

Find the full global rankings here.

About educations.com: educations.com is part of EMG - Educations Media Group, the leader in education marketing in Northern Europe. Headquartered in Stockholm, Sweden, EMG reaches out to students worldwide through its leading online services, comprehensive media partners, print, school visits and education fairs.

###

For more information, please contact Kiril Tiavin at info@educations.com.